

Cuba Calling for More

If they can't get here, we'll go there ....

Right now, in an idyllic setting sprawling across many miles of the Caribbean, is an island people calling for help to reach their neighbors. You might expect the people of Cuba to ask for help to escape the invisible walls that confine them; but no, the call is for evangelistic materials. And it's been that way since we first got involved with our Cuban brothers and sisters. When Books for Cuba was just a dream, the people of this the largest island in the Caribbean, had little else to request of us—"If you can get books to us, this is our greatest need: evangelistic materials."

Once we found a way to get our books into the country, the windows remained open to us, and the Lord has made obvious to us His desire to make Himself better known to His children. Not only have we been able to ship books and tracts into the country, but we've also been able to carry many things in by plane, such as toothpaste, soap, shampoo and other toiletries—some of the most basic needs that are among the hardest to come by. Think: toilet seat, and come up from there.

As the latest sanctions have landed in Cuba, more and more basic items have been even harder to find. Food lines have begun forming, first in the larger cities, then later in the smaller ones. Because of fuel shortages, buses run less frequently and trucking companies cannot deliver food to the stores in and around the cities.

The people of Cuba wanted to be sure that those of you who have shown an interest in them should be thanked for your generosity. Your prayers, your gifts and your household articles you gave us to take have been accepted and appreciated wholeheartedly.

The pictures to the right represent a snapshot of the people who have helped orchestrate the distribution of the books (almost 200k so far). Congregations several hundred strong and some the size of just a couple of families have been involved in reaching out to their neighbors. Our Father cares about them just as He cares about you, and has sheep scattered in many a foreign field.

Right now all the books in Cuba are gone, faithfully scattered across the island. But that hasn't lessened the need. As we sat with David the Treasurer, he expressed the need for still more of our precious books and tracts. "The church members beg us for these," he told us, referring especially to the small Spanish tract, "A Love Letter from Jesus." We have committed to print 25,000 more copies of our book "Buscando la Paz Interior" (Spanish Steps to Christ) for the Cuban Union; it contains all the main Cuban Church addresses.

Thank you for your support with this ongoing project. Keep it up. There's more to do tomorrow, and less time than we had yesterday.
