

Parlez-vous français?

If you do, then this will be of interest

THIRTY-FIVE COUNTRIES AROUND THE GLOBE use the French language for communication. That's about 15 percent of the world's nations, or 265 million people. Twenty-five percent of the population of our closest neighbor to the north, Canada, speak French. Several islands in the Caribbean parlent français, as do many nations across Europe and Africa.

With these numbers in mind, we are happy to tell you that we are well on the way to having ready a French translation of our booklet "The Perfect Storm Is Coming!" Already, plans have been laid for using the Canadian postal system for delivering a copy of the new booklet to French-speaking homes from one Canadian coast to the other. There are approximately 12½ million homes across Canada, so the project will, of course, include the use of the English version. One day soon you will receive a note from us asking you to help cover the costs; please keep us in your prayers and considerations as this project matures.

The French version of the Perfect Storm booklet is the third major-language edition in which the text will appear; English- and Spanish-speaking countries have been on our evangelistic radar for several years, and both versions now have many stamps in their passports. You may remember a couple of years ago a whole container-load of our books (85,000) landed in Bolivia, and were distributed by volunteers — including many Bolivian school children — across Bolivia and throughout neighboring countries.

Many of us English-speakers actually do speak French — we just don't realize it. Next time you use words like: ricochet; silhouette; mortgage, or this word that we like around the Mission World offices — volunteer ... you'll be using words whose origins are the coasts of France. Incidentally, there are no suitable one-word equivalents in the English language for the above words. Think about that.

In the meantime our doors continue to issue forth beacons of light and packets of Good Seed to a world that knows not that its time is running out. It's been a rough winter for those of us in North America, and the distractions have been aplenty; But spring is creeping up the continent, and it's time to get back to our first job — the one whose wage will be presented on the other side of eternity.

Thank you for keeping us working; there is still much left to do. All the while we are here, while the Heavenly Sanctuary has its doors yet open for business, we shall be needed to lead lost souls to the Mercy Seat. Wherever you are, and whatever language you speak, keep up the good work.
