

Back to Cuba with More Love Door's still open Calls keep coming

You know what they say about water? It takes the path of least resistance. Seems like the Kingdom of Heaven currently operates on that principle, too. Once we found a way to get our books into Cuba, it was only going to be a matter of time before more would be needed. Well, that moment has arrived. We've received another call for materials to give away for an evangelistic effort coming up in December.

Actually, the idea is to give away books ahead of time as part of an invite to the meetings for church members to give to their neighbors. A group of pastors and lay-people from the Gulf States Conference is scheduled to land in Havana and conduct evangelistic meetings in December of this year. We're starting this process early because this is what it takes and how it goes. Door-to-door delivery takes several months.

If you haven't kept up with our Cuban project, here's a brief update: Last December we took delivery in Havana of 68,000 copies of our Spanish Steps to Christ (Buscando la Paz Interior), and 65,000 copies of a small devotional tract (in Spanish) entitled "A Love Letter from Jesus." Once the books cleared Customs we loaded them—ten pallets—onto a truck which delivered them to five Church Conferences from one end of Cuba to the other. Once on the ground the entire distribution was carried out in less than thirty hours. The whole thing happened so quickly, it was almost dreamlike.

Last time the Cuban odyssey began while we had no experience at all. At first we weren't even sure we could get books in. We nudged some doors until one cracked, then once open, God performed blessing after blessing until the dream was realized.

This time we have some experience, and know a little bit about what to expect along the way.

So here we are again, still on Planet Earth, still walking with our Lord from town to town, country to country, sowing our seed. There are still so many of our flesh and blood trapped in this world with no visible hope of salvation. We still have good news to share. We still have good seed to sow. We still have time to work. Yes, we are weary. Yes, there is pain down here. But not for much longer will our earthly sojourn continue. There is an end coming, as Bunyan's Charity puts it, "Longer than you wish, [but] sooner than you think." And therein lies the truth.

Once again we must call on you to help with the cost of printing 25,000 copies of Buscando la Paz Interior, and with the cost of shipping them to our brothers and sisters in Havana. We anticipate a realistic figure of $20,000 to get the job done. Any gift, large or small, will be appreciated.

Here at home there is much work left to do. Our mission to the prisons across the country goes forward steadily. All the while doors are open we are busy about placing our books in the hands of inmates. Thank you for your prayers for our efforts, and know that we, too, also pray for you in your mission field. Without you there would be no one else doing the work you do, or helping the work you support. You are important ...
