

What In the World Is Going On? Almost too much to keep track of ...

FEBRUARY IS THE SHORTEST MONTH ON THE Western calendar: 28 days, 29 every 4th year. So how in the world can so much crazy stuff happen in so little a space of time? Did you keep track of the news last month? Meteors; comets; Pope's resignation; earthquakes; floods. There was so much going on across, above and below the face of the earth that we wondered what would come next.

Forget the chaos down here, it seems the whole solar system has gone crazy.

Whatever is going on out there, it appears we have shown up on some celestial radar, and we've been locked onto. Scan the QR code just above and it will take you to a YouTube link highlighting some of these phenomenal events that were reported in the news.

Ever seen the commercial which asserts that this is so simple, "A caveman could do it!"? Well, let's make the suggestion here that even a cave-dweller could step outside his front door and recognize that there is trouble in the wind. No, not in the wind — over the horizon! We've got record-breaking fires; historic snowstorms; unprecedented flooding. The list goes on, putting to silence those whose voices are raised claiming, "It's always been this way. We've always had wars, floods, earthquakes and famine." Yes, these things have been here ever since we first kept a record, but they've never been here like this before. The omens are creepy.

Surely it is a wise person who strives to protect that which belongs to the Lord, but it seems pointless sometimes to try to protect a world that is headed downstream for the falls. If there is something left on the planet to save, surely it is the souls of mankind. Spring is coming, and with it a promise of newness — and a promise of trouble. Better get buckled in; it's going to be bumpy. Your Mission World Family

Some Cold Truth About February:

"For the first time, a U.S. government auditor has added climate change to a list of issues that pose the greatest financial risk to the government and country."

"No-till farming is a response to climate change that fits well with the needs of the Caribbean." -Havana, Cuba

"Scientists and researchers are working together in a new initiative to collect data that will help determine the effects of climate change on coral in the Caribbean Sea." -Trinidad

"Thawing permafrost is emitting more climate-heating carbon faster than previously realised." -Uxbridge, Canada

"The world is in transition from an era of food abundance to one of scarcity."
