

It's What's Going On Heaven never sleeps ... nor wakes

VERY LITTLE IS UNDERSTOOD BY PUNY HUMAN beings about how the machinery of Heaven actually works. The picture we have of God is as a Being with infinite reach; infinite energy, and infinite knowledge; a Being Who can reach out forever in any direction and never be met by a door for which He has no key. But the how-to and by-what-means of Heaven have not been opened to our understanding.

God speaks of hanging worlds in space and of 6-day populations so glibly that we barely take a moment to think through what's actually being said. And because God says so little about how He gets things done, we tend to consider Him as being just like us. We might think of God as having a faulty memory, much like our own, so from time to time we hand Him a note or two; we call them prayers. Our intent is to bring back to His attention a handful of things we think may have escaped his notice, or that we feel may have been put on a back burner. But the God of Heaven is not like the god of the Baal worshipers; He hasn't taken a vacation; isn't taking a nap; hasn't lost track of our little world.

Our God is on the Throne and is well aware of the address of every atom in Creation. Because Heaven never sleeps ... it never needs to wake — ever. Heaven is not like earth.

While the eyes of Man grow heavy with the approach of dusk, Heaven is astir with the affairs of those who are waking with the dawn. In whatever mysterious way the eyes of God function, we can be sure they never grow weary. And He never forgets — never forgets your name, your address or your needs; your arrival on planet earth is not a strange thing to the mind of God.

Something else He has never forgotten is where His sleeping saints are lying. On that grand Resurrection Morning God will have no need to check the records to locate any of His faithful soldiers who have gone into the grave. The twinkling of an eye is more than just a metaphor for metamorphosis. The eye that twinkles will be the eye of God — twinkling with delight at our first face-to-face meeting.

Recently we received a call for a pallet of books to be sent to the Bahamas. Nowadays it's not cheap to ship anything across a body of water. But Faithful soldiers of Christ are answering the call to scatter seed among God's children. Just like so many more thousands of books which go out our doors, these, too, are under the constant notice of Heaven, and they will do the work God has assigned for them. Until the work for souls is over, Heaven will not relax efforts to lead men, women and children away from darkness into light. Keep on keeping on!
