

Another Year ... Another Date for the End ...

And who can deny, the world is a mess, and could stand a re-boot

AS THE YEARS OF OUR lives slip slowly into the past, we are given increasing opportunity to realize the need for an end to all things. "How long, O Lord. How Long?"

Perhaps with more sympathy we should look upon our fellow beings who seem unable to get through just a couple of years without setting a date for the meltdown of the world. Most of us yearn for an end to the pathetic mess we have made of things down here. The first projected notable date for the end of the world that many early Christians settled upon was the Year A.D. 666. Then came A.D. 1000. You probably remember A.D. 2000 (Y2K). The list of dates set in between would take up more room than we have, so we'll just leave those alone.

Right now the growing anticipation attracting a following is surrounding the date of December 21, 2012—that's this year. At the rate time flies, we won't have long to wait for this date. Will it be the end of the world? Well, honestly—no one knows. No one but the Father, that is, and he to whom He may choose to reveal that information. Of this you may rest assured, though: However much you crave to shake the dust of this earth off your feet, your desire pales to insignificance when compared to the longing of our Father Who wishes to get us back to a new beginning. A beginning without pain and all that causes it.

We have a number of projects in orbit to which you may wish to add your support. These include:

Community Mailing

This project is a full-time job sponsored by ordinary people providing an extra-ordinary service to communities across America. Call Lary Petty at (205) 646-2941 for information regarding a mailing to any area or US zip code of your choosing.

Mission America 2

Beginning with the states of North and South Dakota, then Alaska, we have embarked on a fresh evangelistic journey of mailing books to homes in these neglected states. With funds that have begun to come in for this project, we have purchased the first labels for the city of Minot, North Dakota. Minot is the home of one of the Air Force bases housed in that State and is populated by people from all walks across the US. And thus begins a new chapter in the "Book of Acts" for this ministry. As funds become available, it is our intention to place "good" books in homes of every state across the Union.

You may wish to continue your support which provides literature for prisons; or for necessary colporteur ministry. Until the "real" end there will be opportunity for work on a global scale. One day, the "closing" date will finally be the right one. Thank you for making good use of the time till then.
