

Want to Go to the Game? Not to watch, but to give away books?

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE THE WORLD HAS GONE ON LIKE this for this long. Many of us had expected to have been in the Kingdom by now. But here we still are; the merciful clock of Grace is still ticking. For how much longer? None of us knows; so we do what we can with what we have left of our share of mortal time. And we plan We have a plan for our earthly life, and we have a plan for our eternal life, making sure that neither of these two plans conflicts with the other.

It's a New Year. We have a fresh, blank page. This coming year will likely bring a similar amount of grief as last year; but it will also bring many events that God will esteem as successes. During this coming year, with your continued support, we will send out many more tons of books; together we will be responsible for the scattering of an unmeasurable amount of Heavenly seed.

The thought in our minds right now is Super Bowl 50. For some of us, that's an entire lifetime of "epic" match-ups. Fifty years of running around throwing balls at each other. Hard to believe all those years got behind us in such a flash. But they did; and just as quickly the next fifty will also pass into history. It's unlikely that earthly history will remember the names of us ordinary people like it remembers those who score great touchdowns, hit outathepark home runs, or knock out every boxing great that enters the ring. But there's another Book that keeps a more faithful, more accurate, more precise record than those scratched with earthly pens. The records of earth which are kept in Heaven lose nothing in translation, faint not as the years go by, nor do they wax boring as they are remembered time and time again. Our names are scored indelibly on the palms of Jesus, never to be erased.

We have a very present opportunity to place living seed in the hands of the children of God: every year revelers and football enthusiasts gather from around the USA and beyond to witness the face-off of the two greatest giants in the year's gridiron history. If you can afford the time, and will pay for your travel, your accommodation and your food for a week in the San Francisco Bay area, then this message is for you.

If you will get yourself there during the week between January 30 and February 7, we'll provide you with the books to give away to visitors on the streets. You won't be able to take boxes of books into any of the convention centers or even into the Super Bowl arena, but you will be able to give them away on the streets during the week. All we need is an address where you can receive the books.

Perhaps you like the idea, but can't get there at that time. Sponsor someone else; we know people who would be willing to go, but face financial constraints. Perhaps you'd like to help pay for the books and shipping; send us a check, or go to our website and make a donation with a credit card through PayPal. If you'll help us, we'll make this happen.

God has been good to us all on so many levels. Here at Mission World we constantly marvel that he has given us the opportunity to work hand in hand with unseen Heavenly forces. We marvel that He uses pitiful human beings to help give a soul an opportunity to know Him and to spend an eternity getting to know Him better. By God's grace and with your support we watch tens of thousands of our seed-bearing books ship out of our doors on a regular basis. What was once a dream for us is now a very constant reality. Time is drawing to a close, make no mistake about that. These are the Good Old Days, so fill them carefully.
