

The Season for Giving Is Upon Us Like it or not, don't miss the opportunity

Not everyone has much to give; others have no one to give to. Giving is often the fruit of affluence; but not all affluent people give to a cause they are not likely to benefit back from. By the same token, not all people who give are affluent; and in the realm of things that matter, these sacrificial givers often provide for things that have importance far beyond the eye of appearance. This is the

TRADITIONALLY, NOVEMBER IS THE MONTH when much of the planet's population makes plans to give gifts in December. In some circles a small fortune is often spent making sure families are fed and gifted sufficiently. Children of all ages are provided toys and games to keep the attention fixed upon things of little importance, just to keep them out of mischief — or just ... out of the way. But not everyone enjoys the Season.

world God lives in. Our Father gives to everything and everyone, expecting to receive no benefit for Himself; no benefit other than the joy He gets from giving life and liberty, and the pursuit of happiness (to those who want it) to every thinking being throughout His creation.

It was this giving attitude of our Father that caused the setting in motion of a Plan to put things right on planet earth. The seeming delay of this Plan would be revealing on levels also far beyond the eye of appearance. Pardon the wordplay, but giving ... takes. Giving takes time; it takes effort; it takes attention; and often ... it takes sacrifice. It took a Sacrifice for God, and (albeit of far less significance) it often takes a sacrifice for us.

It is true to say that the teeming multitudes of the planet to whom God ministers are unaware, first of their need, and second of the gifts poured constantly from the windows of Heaven. Most of us go through our lives seldom lifting our eyes to Heaven, unaware of the holy interest bestowed in our behalf. If we can get by another week, pay another bill, then this is our view of survival. Human beings who have no bills or responsibilities ... also have no food, no clothes and no roof with which to keep dry — usually.

At IBE our ministry is not to the destitute (though our arms often reach into that realm); our work is to provide reading and listening material designed to appeal to the spiritual needs of those who know not that they have a need in the first place. Our publications minister to the lowly and humble, as well as to the thinking, reasoning men and women in the high places of society.

Thank you for linking your efforts with ours. At this time of year when minds are often more open to receive holy gifts from Heaven, make plans to purchase and give books to those who may know nothing of, or care little for, the Sacrifice made in their behalf. Throughout eternity you will never breathe a sigh of regret for the effort you put forth in the cause of Christ.
